Excerpt from Methods of Morbid Histology and Clinical Pathology This volume is designed to meet the requirements of students and pathologists working in hospitals and institutes. It is issued in response to enquiries for a laboratory handbook, containing the numerous, recently devised methods as well as those of earlier date, arranged in a form suitable for practical work. Although we dare not hope to have fulfilled these conditions in their entirety, we trust that the book will prove useful to those for whom it has been prepared, and thus meet a demand in English medical literature. It will be clearly understood that a book of this type makes no claim for originality. We have freely consulted well-known text-books, especially those of Gustav Mann, Sims Woodhead, Boyce, Mallory and Wright, Aschoff and Gaylord, Lee and Mayer, Schmorl, von Kahlden, Friedlander-Eberth, and Pollack, and the Encyklopaedie der Mikroskopischen Technik. To Schmorl's book, in particular, we are deeply indebted. We have, however, except in a few cases, obtained the details of the methods from the original papers. Our own work has thus consisted in selecting and grouping the methods, and in the addition of a few practical hints. We have also endeavoured to summarise roughly the chief theoretical considerations relative to each method. Excerpt from Atlas of Cutaneous Morbid Histology: Consisting of Fifty-Three Coloured Figures on Twenty-Four Plates and d104 Herr J. B. Van Deventer, Oberstabsarzt of the Netherlands East Indian Army in Batavia, who appeared to me quite exceptionally qualified to accomplish the design. My colleague combined the most painstaking industry with great artistic gifts, and with a power of delineating the most difficult details. In a remarkably short time he had prepared the accompanying plates, and I trust that the admirable way in which he has performed the task will meet with well-merited approval. Thus it only remained for me to write the explanatory text. I have endeavoured to do this in such a way as to include a sketch of the present state of our knowledge of each disease delineated in the plates. I have for other reasons been unable to adopt an alphabetical arrangement of the subjects treated, for the exigencies of space rendered it necessary to arrange the plates in such a manner as the nature and form of the figures depicted permitted. Excerpt from Practical Pathology and Morbid Histology To the student, however, such an extensive knowledge of histology is not a necessity, as he will have, in the laboratory, someone to show him the different changes as he proceeds with his work it is, how ever, necessary that he should have a set of normal specimens to refer to, and here he will find those made by him during his course in the histological laboratory simply invaluable. This work is intended to be a help to students taking a regular laboratory course, and also to others wishing to form a. Laboratory at home and the aim will be to make all the different details as simple and practical as possible.
